Co. C Wins Smashing Victory

Henley Wins Governor's Cup

For the third time in four years, Co. C of Norway won the annual State Rifle Shoot at Auburn. Co. C was the victor in 1924-1926 and again brought home the bacon this year.

Although the team was handicapped by the loss of Sgt. Joseph A. Crooker, they hung up the largest aggregate score ever shot in a state tourney.

Henley was the high man on the team and also high man in the whole shoot. He won the Governors' Cup after a desperate struggle. This match was close from the first shot to the last. The match consisted of 10 shots at 500 yds. and 10 shots rapid fire at 200 yds. Corp. Gammon and Pvt. Henley were leading the field at the end of the first stage with a score of 48. George Lowe also of C Company was next with 47. At the 200 yard mound the scores were Henley 47, Gammon 47, Lowe 47, with a total of 95 for Henley, 95 for Gammon and 94 for Lowe.

Gammon and Henley then shot off the tie at the Governor's request. They then hung up a score of 46 each. Once more they went to the firing line and took up a position. This time Henley emerged the victor with a score of 47 to Gammon's 46. This was a masterly exhibition of expert shooting by both boys, and received much applause from the large crowd of spectators. Governor Brewster then presented the cup to Henley and congratulated Gammon on his excellent showing.

In the Company Team Match Co. C took the lead and were never headed, piling up points at every stage. The team was the best shooting team that was ever entered in a State Tourney and when the final shot was fired were 43 points ahead of their nearest rival. For this they were awarded the Instructors' Cup.

The whole team placed on the Infantry Artillery Match, the first time this happened in the history of a state shoot. The ten high men in the infantry shoot against the high ten in the artillery and Henley was high winning first place. Gammon was in third place, Haskell and Lowe were 5th and 6th.

Although the State Individual was not won by this company, they were well represented. Gammon was leading the state until hard luck on the last range brought him in sixth place. The winner had a score of 220 and both Lowe and Henley had 219.

Sergt. Crooker was at Camp Perry, O., and was high man on the state of Maine team and also placed in many National matches.

Following is the summary of the team:

	Prone	Sit & Kneel	Stand	Prone RF	Sit Rf	Total
Haskell	48	44	43	44	44	223
Gammon	47	48	39	47	46	227
Lowe	46	47	46	44	38	221
Henley	50	48	41	48	44	231
						902

Each man on the company team was presented a gold medal, also a silver medal for placing in the Infantry Artillery match.

Prvt. George Lowe worked under difficulties during the week. He labored nights as fireman at the C. B. Cummings & Sons Co. mill and hustled to Auburn each morning for a day's grind on the range.

The following letter was received by Company C 103rd Inf., from Adjutant General's office:

"It affords the Adjutant General much pleasure to note that as a result of the annual field inspection you are mentioned as one of the company's deserving commendation. Signed, J. W. Hanson, the Adjutant GGeneral."

"Reg. Hdq. 103rd Inf., Portland, Me., to Capt. Harry L. Twitchell, Co. C, 103rd Inf., Norway, Maine. It affords this office great pleasure to note that you have been mentioned for "deserving Commendation." This shows untiring effort on your part to attain a high grade of efficiency. By Order of Colonel Bigelow."

Victory Celebration

On Tuesday night, Sept. 27, Co. C is having a buffet lunch and dance in honor of the Rifle Team which did such splendid work at State Shoot, Co. C is justly proud of this team which is without doubt one of the finest 4 man teams ever produced by a National Guard organization in this state. Each member of the company will bring partner and also invite a young couple to help celebrate and do honor to their team.

COMMUNITY NURSING

The following questionaire which, with the exception of the last question, was used in the Health Survey of 6 Cities, made by the American Child Health Association has been used this week in the schools of Norway. The purpose is to learn what health habits need emphasis. The teachers and the nurse see value in knowing what proportion of the children are from homes where the mother is employed outside. The questionaire has been given absolutely impersonally—children were requested not to give their name as it is general, not individual, information that is sought. It is believed that all thoughtful people will find the the questions bearing very directly on matters that affect child health. When the results are compiled they will provide material for health teaching. Merely to direct the attention of the children to these questions as having importance appears worth while.

MEMORIES OF THE GREENBACKS

Reviving memories of the Greenback party that had its best days some forty years ago is made possible by Irving Harmon of Norway.

Mr. Harmon, while visiting his brother, Gene in Casco, returned home with a handful of keepsakes. Among them is a letter written by Benjamin Bunker, State Secretary of the National Greenback party to Spencer Decker, Esq., dated July 18, 1879. The contents is strictly routine business relative to establishing and putting life into Greenback clubs throughout Maine for the campaign of 1879-80. Among the names of officers displayed on the letter heads is that of the late R. A. Frye, a prominent attorney of Bethel, who was a member of the state and executive committees. He was an active member of the party and a politician of the old school.

Three votes for that campaign are interesting. Seldon Connor headed one ticket with Thos. B. Reed for representative to Congress. Joseph L. Smith was candidate for governor on one and Alonzo Garcelon for governor on the third ticket.

Four tables at cards were enjoyed the first half of the evening, later the gifts were brought in in a basket and presented to the very much surprised bride. The gifts consisted of many pretty and useful things for the home.

Judge C. F. Whitman returned to the Eye and Ear Infirmary, Tuesday for the removal of a cataract on the other eye. The eye operated on several weeks ago, is coming well.

Heard and Seen at Advertiser Office

C. L. Lang, of Somerville, Mass. made the office a pleasant call. This is an annual event and we look forward to the greeting sometime during Oxford County fair week. Mr. and Mrs. Lang arrived on schedule to visit two weeks with Harry A. Packard and family while taking in the big show and calling on relatives in town. Mr. Lang is a veteran conductor, his run is from Boston to Lowell via Framingham, seven days a week when not laying off for a few days' vacation.

Harold L. Drake called Saturday to renew his subscription. He spent fair week with his parents but hit the trail early this week for his farm at Imlay City, Michigan. The farm comprises 125 acres and he proposes to raise cattle and produce dairy products for Detroit, some forty miles away. Since leaving Norway in June, he has visited in every state except Oklahoma and also motored into the country of Mexico, the most devastated flood section along the Mississippi was the most desolate region imaginable and Death Valley with its borax mine in California was a locality not altogether attractive.

O. W. Brown of Lynn, Mass., news writer in that district for the Boston Herald, was a frequent caller during the fair. "Oz" as we call him was born in Ward 8, Norway, fifty-five years ago and grew like other boys. He was an observing youngster and some time may give the Advertiser readers his recollections of Oxford County fair way back in the late eighties. Jumping fences was not necessary in those days, he told us, because of the delapidated condition of things. Kids had no trouble entering over the back stretch, and we assume young Brown as a daring youth often traveled that route and worked around shacks called booths for a glass of pink lemonade. We'll let him tell the story, in his own way. Nearly forty years newspaper experience should place him on scratch for hot copy.

Mrs. L. W. Ramsell of Bethel, visited us, Saturday, and brought in some keys which she had found on Cottage Street and requested that we find the owner. The keys are here waiting an owner.

Leroy Barker who has been at Bronx, New York, the past summer learning the plumber's trade was in Monday to have his paper sent to his home here as he plans to spend the winter at home on accont of his father's illness.

Elmer Morrill of Norway is patronizing the 'For Sale' Column on page 4, having some pullets to sell and called in, Monday.

J. H. Fox of East Stoneham, was here, Monday afternoon, and placed an ad in the intelligence column for the sale of several apple barrel heading machines. He said he had one of the machines some time but purchased the second one with some other things and decided he better sell both as he needed the room.

Elwin S. Russell, spare man about our shop, contributes his mite to the museum. He picked up a woman's chamois glove that we are holding for the owner.

Frank A. Packard of West Paris, now employed in Norway uses the Intelligence Column for the sale of his camp at Indian Pond in Greenwood. Great place for fishing and hunting so look up his story in this paper.

Louis Roy called in Tuesday and subscribed for the Advertiser. Louis left Wednesday for Bates College to begin his senior year and wanted the old home paper to go with him. On being asked how he enjoyed his college course, he said, "Fine. I have to work my way. I work in a restaurant part of the time, chauffer part of the time and in fact work what I can and I think perhaps I appreciate my course more than some do. I enjoy studying and also some of the sports."

George H. Fox, of Lovell, manager of the Gremmels estate, was in Tuesday and had some auction bills printed, also an ad placed in the paper for the auction to be held at Camp Kinapik. C. E. Gremmels of Kahdina Hill, Morristown, N. J., who of which Mr. West was the manager, is making many changes. The tents are to be replaced by small convenient cottages and will be used for the entertainment of missionaries.

Two men walking on the sidewalk came within an ace of getting winged when an auto driver cut across lots on a street corner. The near victims say there was not a warning sounded, but they had the satisfaction of telling the driver a few things, among them a threat to take "his number." We are asked to call attention to the careless practice of saving time, it is a dangerous trick and invites accidents. Certainly pedestrians have some rights even if they are without license plates.

All kinds of Intelligence column ads on page four. Read them over—all sorts of things are wanted and all sorts of things for sale—look them over.

Stanley I. Perham of West Paris, proprietor of The Nature Shop called Wednesday to place an ad for orders for Oxford County Rose Quartz for Christmas gifts. See ad. Mr. Perham deals in minerals and gems.

Rev. E. H. Carritt, pastor of the Federated Church of Oxford visited us Wednesday and bought a supply of cardboard for work in the Sunday school.

Rev. N. G. French of Auburn called Wednesday to pay his respects to the fishing editor. The visitor was spending the day with his daughter, Mrs. Clarence Buck and looked up friends he made while residing in Norway from 1884 to 1887. During those years he was State missionary in the Baptist denomination. Up to the hour of his call at the office, not more than five of the old timers had been located. He was anxious to find Editor Sanborn so his steps were directed to the Weary Club where chances were more than even the whittler might be found.

This week you will find items from several town correspondents we have not heard from for some weeks. Always glad to hear from our town correspondents.

Newton Newkirk of Brookline, Mass., humorist of the Boston Post, was in Wednesday and subscribed for the Advertiser to go to his home address. Mr. Newkirk has been at his summer home on Lake Kezar, Lovell, since last June and plans to return to Massachusetts the third of October. Mr. Newkirk said ahe wanted the Advertiser as it kept him in touch with people he was acquainted with that he could hear from in no other way.

Myron Roberts, a printer in this office has received news that his father, Myron G. F. Roberts is critically ill at the Huggins Hospital at Wolfboro, N. H. He underwent an operation Thursday for appendicitis. Mr. Roberts was foreman in our back shop years ago. He left the printing game for the B. F. Spinney & Co., shoe factory but returned to his trade at Wolfboro, where he has been for twenty years. His father was Rev. B. F. Roberts, a Baptist preacher in Norway for some time.

Norway High School

Norway high school opened September 12 with the following enrollment

Post Graduate	7
12th Grade (Seniors)	33
11th Grade (Juniors)	41
10th Grade (Sophomores)	40
9th Grade (Freshmen)	59
8th Grade	46
Total	226

Plans have been made this year to have the 8th grade taught subjects closely related to the high school. Civics, Junior High Mathematics and English are to be under the 3-2 plan for senior and junior high schools. Direct supervision with the high school is impossible at present as the high school has an approved capacity of only 104 students.

Due to the over-crowded conditions, the high school has been obliged to change from the approved seven-period day to an eight-period day This makes it possible to have smaller classes and a more flexible curriculum. It also provides for a "Helping Room" for students having difficulty in any subject.

An eight-period day is not recommended by the State Board of Education. It was absolutely necessary this year, however, in order to assure any measure of success in the work. Certainly if Norway wishes to progress in the line of education immediate attention will have to be given to the schoolhouse problem. The grades as well as the high school are increasingly overcrowded. In one room constructed to contain seats enough for 35 or 40 pupils there are 53 enrolled. This means that chairs are placed against the walls to serve as desks and books have to be placed on the floor under the chairs. Can a boy or girl expect to get the training he ought to get in such a classroom? Doesn't it seem to you that teachers and pupils are placed at a decidely unfair advantage? Please consider this carefully when comparing Norway High School with schools in towns of this size.

School Orchestra

Miss Ruth Flanders who has charge of music in the high school and in the three primary schools, is leader of the newly organized Norway High School Orchestra. A splendid first rehearsal was held Wednesday evening, September 21, with Miss Ada Reed of the faculty assisting. Monday evening was chosen for regular rehearsals. One class period a week will be used for practice, thus giving two weekly rehearsals. Those out for practice were Albert Clark, saxaphone; Kenneth Goodwin, saxaphone; Harlan Whitman, cornet; Paul Brown, violin; Clara Adkins, violin; Miss Phyllis Shaw (of the faculty), violin; Alberta Hosmer, piano. There are several alternates for piano and some freshmen who will probably join later. Miss Flanders feels confident that Norway is going to build up one of the best school orchestras in the state.

Coach Rowe has led the boys in hard practice for two weeks and says he expects them to make a good showing in the game Saturday.

It opened with a selection by Mitchell's Orchestra and the full company singing, "How do you do, everybody?" This was followed by members of the Ladies' Circle, who were dressed in Old Fashioned costume, and held a mock session, wherein two of the most vivacious of the ladies, Mrs. Mary Page and Mrs. Huntress, who had participated in the festivities of the "Three-Quarter Century Club" in Portland, related their very interesting experiences to their less fortunate companions, the while, Pauline Stacy, a youthful maiden transformed by an old-fashioned garb into a matron of mature years looked after the comfort of the members, and supplied them with an abundance of popcorn. Mrs. LeRoi Syphers of Cornish gave two delightful readings, and Mrs. Frank Lord of Parsonsfield, while glancing over a package of old letters, sang in a very telling manner, the appropriate song, "Memories," giving in response to the encore, "Alice Blue Gown." Three bridal couples appeared on the scene each representing by their garb a different epoch and looking like all bridal couples, very sweet and interesting. As they stood grouped on the stage, Mrs. Chauncey Cutting sang, "Oh, Promise Me," and drifting away with the last notes of the song, they were recalled to the stage by the strains of a waltz song, sung in a very pleasing manner by two of our popular young men, Orion Stanley and John Garner.

Geneva Merrifield and Claire Kittredge sang, "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," while William Jarvis, who was dressed as a flapper and Maurice Durgin acted it out in a very realistic manner. The orchestra rendered several fine selections prior to the musical reading of "Maine" by Mrs. E. G. Caston. The stage setting for this represented a woodland scene with all the accessories, tent, camp fire, gun, fishing rod, and reclining on a bed of pine boughs, Allen F. Garner. After the reading of the poem, which was a beautiful picture of the State, and the camper and his visions had departed, Irene Merrifield costumed as an Indian Maiden walked slowly around the camp fire, while Mrs. Chauncy Cutting sang, "Red Wing," an Indian love song. Elton Merrifield sang two pleasing songs, "Me and My Shadow" and for encore, "Ain't She Sweet." Mrs. F. G. Devereux represented the Library. She was lovely in an old fashioned costume strolling in an old fashioned garden, picking flowers; Margaret Chellis also in costume sang, "An Old Fashioned Garden." "Do Gentlemen Prefer Blondes?" seemed perplexing. Two blondes, two brunettes, and two "red heads," all masked, walked slowly across the platform. The applause was great, but for which color seemed to be a mooted question. The evolution of the ankle was quite amusing, five pairs of ankles were on exhibition showing the shortening tendency of the skirt. 1907 very little ankle was seen but each successive year widened the breach until in 1927 the whole leg was visible. The question awaiting answer is, where will the ankles be in 1937. William Bachelder represented the first graduating class of Porter High and Helen Pratt the last. Two placards were placed beside them, giving the number of graduates for each year. The total was 132. The closing chorus was "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here."

Lesson for September 25

REVIEW—THE EARLY KINGS OF ISRAEL

DEVOTIONAL READING—Ps. 103:1-8.

GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord hath prepared His throne in the heavens; and His kingdom ruleth over all.

PRIMARY TOPIC—What We Can Learn From Samuel, Saul, David and Solomon.

JUNIOR TOPIC — Teachings and Warnings From the Quarter's Lessons.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Lessons From Samuel, Saul and David.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Honoring God in Our Lives and in Our Land.

Though the lesson title for the quarter is "The Early Kings of Israel" the great character Samuel should be included. A good way to conduct the review would be to make a character study of the four outstanding persons of the quarter—Samuel, Saul, David and Solomon. Perhaps the most satisfactory method of review will be the summing up of the leading events and teachings of each lesson. The assignments should be made a week ahead so that the members of the class may recite without hesitation. The following suggestions are offered:

Lesson for July 3.

Against the protest of Samuel the people demanded a king, in order that they might be like other nations. Saul of the tribe of Benjamin, was given as best suited to fill the place.

Lesson for July 10.

Because of Samuel's exemplary life as a child, a judge and a ruler, he was able to challenge the people to show wherein he had ever defrauded or oppressed anyone. It is a fine thing when a man in public life can be vindicated against the charge of wrongdoing, either in public or in private.

Lesson for July 17.

Saul's failure brought great sorrow of heart to Samuel. The selection of David from Jesse's sons showed that God looks not on the outward appearance, but upon the heart. David's fidelity as a shepherd boy put him in line for promotion.

Lesson for July 24.

Because David was jealous for and trusted in God he was able to overcome Goliath, who had defied the living God.

Lesson for July 31.

The friendship of David and Jonathan has become immortalized in the world's thought. It was unique in that it occurred between two men of rival worldly interests. Jonathan, the crown prince, knew that God had chosen David, therefore he waived his natural rights.

Lesson for August 7.

David knew that God had rejected Saul and chosen himself to be king. Though relentlessly pursued by Saul, David spared the king because he was God's anointed.

Lesson for August 14.

When David was made king he desired to bring up the ark, the symbol of God's presence, to the center of the nation's life. Though his desire was worthy, he was not careful to do according to God's way. Doing a right thing in a wrong way is displeasing to God.

Lesson for August 21.

Though God did not permit David to build a house for Him, He did something better; He promised to build for David a house, that is, to establish for him a throne. God does more and better for us than we are able to ask or think.

Lesson for August 28.

Through neglected duty David fell into temptation and grievously sinned. By means of a parable Nathan the prophet convicted him of his sin. Upon confession to God forgiveness was granted.

Lesson for September 4.

Because Solomon chose wisdom in order to intelligently reign over the nation, God abundantly bestowed upon him wisdom and riches. God's blessings exceed our asking.

Lesson for September 11.

Solomon's first task after his coronation was building the temple, a privilege which was denied to David his father. Because of Solomon's obedience God manifested His presence and thus made the temple holy.

Lesson for September 18.

Rehoboam's pride and arrogancy lost to himself the support of the major portion of the nation.

We Grow Strong or Weak

Great occasions do not make heroes or cowards; they simply unveil them. Silently, day by day, we grow strong or weak and at last some crisis shows what we have become.—Canon Westcott.

Have Christ in Your Heart

If a man have Christ in his heart heaven before his eyes, and only as much of temporal blessing as is just needful to carry him safely through life, then pain and sorrow have little to shoot at.—William Burns.

The Cost and the Gain

Christ tells us to count the cost of discipleship, but he never asked us to count the gain. He knew we could not; there is no arithmetic to compute that.—W. L. Watkinson.

UNLOCKED CARS AND THIEVES

Automobile stealing is gaining at an alarming rate. Juveniles are doing an increasing amount of the stealing. There are nearly as many nervy boys "borrowing" someone else's car for a joy ride as there are professional thieves stealing cars. Unless the trend is checked, a lot of those boys will progress only too rapidly from their first offense to serious crimes.

One simple first aid remedy which should be applied to this car theft epidemic is suggested by the police statement that 70 and 80% of the cars taken by boys have been left on the streets unlocked. The careful citizen—careful both of his own property and of his responsibility toward youth—will take the hint and always lock his car when he leaves it, even if he expects to park it only for a few minutes. Boys experienced in such thievery cannot get away with a properly locked car.

Vacationist's Helpful Suggestions

E. S. Paret of Pennsylvania Tells Us a Few Things from a Summer Visitor's Point of View

The following leter was written to us but not intended for publication but as it will give us the view of a man who has sojourned among us for nearly forty years we print the whole letter—there may be suggestions that will help.

Sept. 10, 1927

"I was much pleased when I reached home this evening and found the copy of this week's paper waiting for me. I have missed it the past several weeks but due to forgetfulness I had failed to renew my subscription, so here is my check for another year of your chatty paper.

"Each year when I get to Norway and see the new cottages being erected along the shores of your lake, I wonder if you folks who see that lake year in and out, realize what an asset you have. Every man from outside your State who builds or buys a cottage along the shores, be becomes one of you. Most of you do not get to know him, but during his stay he contributes quite liberally to the support of your stores, he helps your township by paying taxes and as far as I know asks no favors. He never voices his opinions at your elections, being perfectly content to be able to go to a place in the summer that appeals to him as being the ideal spot.

"Now is not this man worth looking after just a little. Most of the men who spend their vacations at Norway come there to fish. Would it not be worth the while of some active body to see that each year a liberal supply of bass are stocked in the lake. You had a good law passed limiting the catch, but that law, I understand has expired and even when it was in force I saw it broken many times by men who came to the lake for a day or two's fishing. Then, too, very few men who fish take out a license. I do not think there are many who do these things deliberately, but often because they either do not know or are thoughtless of others. If every camp had a notice tacked on it, urging in a nice way the proper observance of the law, your lake will head attractions for years to come.

"Now you have a board of trade. I do not know where their rooms are, but if they have a place where vacationists could call, would it not help your community; if some small pamphlet could be given telling of the advantages around your locality. For instance, the golf course at South Paris, the charge they make for the use of their greens is so small any one would be glad to avail themselves of it, if it was known. I appreciate the things I have mentioned cost money, but my experience has been that money wisely spent, makes more money. Another thing, if your board of trade have rooms would it not be a wise thing to let folks know there is a "rest" room for both males and females. This is something sadly lacking in this country. On the continent and in England, no one need be in distress because there are retiring rooms provided in even the smallest of towns.

"Please do not feel I am "picking" or finding fault with Norway. I love its lake and hills, I like the many people I have met, they have always been hospitable and kind. I am thinking only in terms of helpfulness. I have been coming to Norway since 1888 and have only missed five summers since I started, so if I did not care for what you have, you can readily understand my vacations to your place would have ceased long ago. And in my comings I have brought others, perhaps over 150 people, many of whom have continued their visits from year to year, while some have bought cottages for themselves. So I feel I am speaking as an old timer.

"Maine is the greatest vacation state in the union, not patronized as well perhaps as it should be, but its advantages appeal to all who love the great outdoors, and it does seem that one of the best assets a town possesses is a surrounding that does and will appeal. Atlantic City grew only because of advertising, Cape May at one time was the leading New Jersey resort, but today the wealth in Atlantic City overtops Cape May by more than 10 times.

"Your merchants are fair, their stores inviting, there is no disposition to gouge, in fact there is always a spirit of helpfulness present, so with such a good foundation would it not be worth while to start building for a better future. Take a little of the money you receive in taxes from your summer citizens and spend it to get more of them.

I am not writing this for publication, but only to pass along to you the thoughts I have of your town and its opportunities.

State highway departments last year surfaced a total of more than 13,600 miles of earth roads. In addition, they rebuilt 5,828 miles of old surfaces, 163,059 miles of the 287,928 miles of Federal aid State roads are now surfaced.

Need of Direct Primary

R. L. Cummigs of West Paris Comment on Address Given at Pomona Grange

I have just attended our Pomona Grange at Upton and had the pleasure of listening to a full fledged campaign speech from the Hon. F. R. Dyer, formerly of Buckfield, Me., now U. S. District Attorney at Portland. I wish that space could reach every audience in this state. It shows most clearly the indispensible need of the direct primary although delivered as an anti primary.

Let us consider one statement that will repeat from memory as near as possible. "Our senators and representatives at Washington would never have voted for the McNary Hogan bill and passed it up to President Coolidge if they had not feared the mob back home that would defeat them in the primaries. It takes very first cowards of brave men."

If that statement is true and I believe it is) those senators and representatives at heart were not in sympathy with the people and were only made to vote as the measure their people wanted them to, for of the fact that the people would themselves of the Direct Primary and defeat those men who did not carry out their wishes but at heart were in the service of the moneyed interests and have a legitimate weapon that they could to force an unwilling vote for or against the measure that we want passed from the halls of those that are supposed to represent us, even though they are bear to us in sympathy with our opponents, who would deprive ourselves of it?

The greater fear back of the statement that they know that a majority of the Direct Primary is on our side, and that the people can take matters into their own hands and elect men that will represent them after election.

Mr. Dyer and all those who are in direct opposition to the Direct Primary are stone of our government. I do not understand it, is that: The people are the sovereign. Would Mr. Dyer tell us in plain words whom we have chosen to represent us, should assume sovereignty? I think not. The sovereign people would establish is the "Australian ballot" system, otherwise known as the party column. Is the interest of those who are spending million dollar campaign funds to deceive the people to defeat the Direct Primary, gentlemen know will succeed often when elected.

He mentioned two men, one was Mr. Hinkley, whose name was signed by the Direct Primary. I do not question of the statement that Mr. Hinkley would spend three years and $50,000 to secure the nomination for governor. Well, why should we not attribute double that amount to Mr. Hinkley when he contributed his own personal funds to the Direct Primary? Is it not a friend that was chairman of the Republican Committee of Hinkley's campaign for U. S. Senate where he could have used wide use in his great machine? Is he not a man of unlimited popularity? Surely this fact alone brings those gents out in the open and makes it expensive for them. Why should not they want to beat it out?

But behind all this is the real menace of the politicians. Supposing for instance that the people of Maine should select a man of their own choice, and more this lavish expenditure of money, thunder and purchasable votes would cease. My! That could be made the end of "Boss" rule and the "Machine" once between crooked politicians and elected lambs."

Mr. Dyer quoted Theodore Roosevelt in opposition to the Direct Primary. I feel very sure that the words he used was not in opposition to the Direct Primary but were used as an explanation of the "Recall of judicial decisions." His words were to the effect that the recall should be used sparingly and with good judgement. Theodore Roosevelt was never opposed to the Direct Primary.

Let me assure you, gentlemen, that the people will retain the Direct Primary. We should thank you for making us see that upon it. It is the best thing that has happened to teach the people to appreciate it. They can do great things when they unite.

There is one question that I would like to have our Maine State Grange answer. One of its most prominent members has now openly declared himself in favor of the Direct Primary. Was this done by the order, or request, whichever they may see fit to call it, that the Grange took in this matter. The Maine State Grange took action to assist in the passage of this law. He now says: What outside influences was brought to bear to cause him and others to change the action of a previous State Grange against his own mind? It surely would have been that he was carrying out the wishes of the body of people he was supposed to represent.

What has the Maine State Grange done in the interest of agriculture or for the good of our citizens that labor for a living? Is the day when C. S. Stetson held the office of State Master?

Either as individuals or as a body, before legislative committees approved before legislative committees for the giving away of our principles and powers. The abating of taxes for the great corporations. They have always appeared in opposition to the Public Utilities increases on our rates of transportation, even the recent great increase in the

Since [illegible]that time there have been several in- [illegible]creases yet Mr. McIntire with the State [illegible]Grange has not raised a hand in defence [illegible]of our interests. What new light has been [illegible]revealed to them that they will not dis- [illegible]close to us?

They remind me of that verse. "Ye are the salt of the earth, but if the salt has lost its savor, wherewith all shall it be salted. It is thenceforth of no avail and it shall be cast out and trodden under the feet of men."—R. L. Cummings.

Our Trip Down East

From Bangor to Eastport

By Ralph M. Bacon

All aboard, this train for Bar Harbor, Cherryfield, Machias, Eastport and Calais 6-15 in the morning. An unearthly hour for folks on a vacation to be taking a train. Well, we made it and found ourselves on the train for Calais, pulling out of the Bangor Union station, almost before we were fully awake.

It's great to be going into a strange and unknown country especially when it's your own state of Maine to be explored. The first few miles out of Bangor was through a beautiful farming section. Then came forests and with a few exceptions a continuation of forests all the way to Calais. Our train wound in and out through a rugged country, with curves so sharp that the locomotive could be seen the larger part of the time.

Lucerne-in-Maine, only twelve miles from Bangor, is indeed a beauty spot. Phillips Lake, renamed Lake Lucerne, is set in among rugged mountains with clean rocky shores; Green Lake, a few miles beyond, is a close rival for beauty.

Ellsworth, from the train, looked like a beautiful old town with its great Elm shade trees overhanging the streets. After leaving Washington Junction, where connections for Bar Harbor are made, we headed due East, only a few miles from the coast most of the way although we only caught glimpses a few times.

At Cherryfield, there were evidences that we were coming into the land of the blueberry. This is a busy little town with its lumber mills and canning factories. We passed acres of land along the railroad covered with Blueberry bushes between this place and Ayers Junction.

Beyond Cherryfield it is woods, woods and yet more woods with occasional cleared fields. We passed through Harrington, Columbia, Columbia Falls, Jonesboro and Whitneyville and then Machias, shire town of Washington County, came in view.

Machias is one of Maine's very best. A fine old seaport town, it has retained to a large degree its old time prosperity. Its lumber mills are still busy. It is becoming the center of the Blueberry canning industry. It has a very active Chamber of Commerce which is doing much to place the town on the map. Machias certainly did look interesting, but our train was moving on past Machiasport and East Machias, the last named being a close rival to Machias in beauty. For several miles the railway follows the river, making this the most beautiful part of the journey from Washington Junction.

It's a long journey from Bangor to Calais. After being on the train five hours, we began to realize it. We passed Ayer Junction, where connections for Eastport are made, St. Croix Junction, where one changes for Woodland and Princeton and behold, the St. Croix river was in sight. Over on the other side was Canada. We had reached the border and very shortly we were at Milltown and then Calais, after being on the train almost six hours from Bangor.

We had planned to stay only a few hours in Calais and then go on to Eastport, but we immediately changed our plans and decided to spend the night here. We made no mistake. Calais is a nice old town to stop in. We spent the larger part of the afternoon in sightseeing about Calais and St. Stephen, N. B. over the river. The street car system has only a few cars, but they give good service. For a very small fare we had a delightful trolley ride over Calais, Milltown, Milltown, N. B. and St. Stephen, N. B.

The Canadian side of the river seems the much more prosperous industrially. There is a large cotton mill and several other industries and true to Canadian form they are "Limited," instead of "incorporated," as in this country. We found the Canadian custom officials most pleasant and smiling in the discharge of their duties. We had no baggage when we crossed the river, so there was probably much less bother for us on that account. Canadian and Union Jack flags were flying everywhere in Milltown and St. Stephen, reminders of the great Canadian Jubilee which had just been celebrated.

Calais has seen more prosperous days in the past than it now enjoys in the present. The saw mills have gone, in fact about everything is gone except the shoe factory. However, there are signs and indications that Calais has already seen its worst days and that an improvement is beginning. The city has a beautiful location high on the banks of the St. Croix river. It has a splendid supply of pure cold water from the Canadian hills. Its hotels are O. K. The Chamber of Commerce is active in advertising the advantages of Calais, the Center of Way Down East. Its citizens are real state of Mains folks. Somehow you like Calais right away. There is friendliness in the air. It may be just imagination but it does seem as if the people become more friendly the further one penetrates into the state of Maine. We noticed this at Bangor. It was true of the entire down east country. They just made us feel they were glad to see us.

We noticed there has been some new building within the past year or so and ground was being broken for what will be a very fine theatre, by far the largest in Eastern Maine.

We shall look back to Calais with fond memories of the best night's rest on the entire trip. The beds at our hotel were fine and Calais became nice and quiet at an early hour. Tuesday was soon with us and it was so hot it was hard to realize we were in the most Northern city in Maine. The thoughts of a sail down the St. Croix to Eastport appealed to us strongly. Just how we made it we hardly know even yet, but through the kindness of those dear down east folks, we found ourselves on a freight boat sailing down the river with Calais and St. Stephen fading away in the distance.

It is a most beautiful sail down the river and into the Passamaquoddy Bay. On the left were the rugged hills of New Brunswick, on the right was the state of Maine and a beautiful farming country. We passed St. Croix island where Sieur De Monts made the first settlement in 1640. At Robbinston we saw our first Sardine factory. St. Andrews, N. B. is a very beautiful summer resort. We made a short call at both these places. We were soon out in the bay and from hot sultry weather we were now getting a cold sea breeze that made us glad for what wraps we had. It is nearly thirty miles from Calais to Eastport. It was nearly three o'clock in the afternoon when we came out around Deer Island. and Eastport, our destination Down East was before us.

Wrong Idea About Storms

The weather bureau says that there is no reason why storms should be more frequent of severe on September 21 or 22 (autumnal equinox) than on September 10 or 11, say, or 29 or 30; nor, in fact, are they. The same is true of the spring or vernal equinox. This whole notion about "equinoctial storms" is erroneous, and it even is uncertain how, where, when or by whom the idea was started. We only know that in one form or another it goes back at least to 1748.

The Radiant Heater

QUICK, CLEAN, HEALTHFUL HEAT

When and Where You Want It

For health and comfort every home requires extra heat almost daily during the winter months and for the cool mornings and evenings of spring and fall. Until the American Radiant Heater was introduced the comfort of a really efficient portable heater was available only to homes served by gas. Now every home can enjoy this convenience.

The American Radiant Heater resembles Nature's method of heating—by radiation and reflection. The heat waves warm the body and other objects with which they come in contact but leave the air cool, healthful and pleasant to breathe. While the heat is felt 15 to 18 feet from the heater it does not make the air stuffy and there is no smoke or disagreeable odor.

The American Radiant Heater is easily carried from one room to another even while burning. It takes only a minute to light it. Its warm cheerful glow is felt immediately in every part of the room. No piping or hose required, no connections to make, no danger of gas leaks.

"Will that varnish that I used on my boat last summer be equally satisfactory on my interior woodwork?" asked a customer.

"Sure thing," we replied, "Bay State Inorout Varnish may be used with satisfaction on any interior or exterior surface."

It is extremely tough and durable and gives a lustrous finish which keeps its brilliance in spite of snow, rain, sleet or heat. Under ordinary conditions, it will last for years.

Inorout Varnish is washable, easy flowing and looks like liquid glass. It is waterproof and will not scratch white or spot under hot or cold liquids.

Oxford Pomona Grange

Met With Upton Grange

Oxford Pomona Grange met with Upton grange Tuesday, Sept. 13, and the day of sunshine was fully appreciated by the visiting patrons, who enjoyed the drive, some covering a distance of fifty miles, Mother Nature surely had on her company smile which was ably seconded by the smiling greetings of the Master and members of the host grange. A great many improvements have been made in the hall within the last two years, giving ample room for entertaining, a more commodious stage has been built, which at this time was tastefully decorated with wild flowers; as were the officers' stations.

The meeting was opened at 11 a. m. by Worthy Master Saunders. Protem officers O., Ernest Talbot; Sec., Mrs. Ernest Talbot; Treas., G. W. Q. Perham; G. K., Ralph Knightly. A song, "The Truth is Marching On," by all, followed the opening exercises. Business disposed of at which time a member was received by demit from New Century Pomona, Mrs. A. Allan. No candidates were instructed at this time.

The potato situation was discussed in regard to rot, and marketing by L. E. Wight, W. M. Saunders, G. W. Q. Perham, R. L. Cummings, Charles Hamlin and others, some reporting serious conditions of rot, while some locations seemed immune. At this time dinner was announced, Worthy Master Saunders declaring a recess.

On entering the dining room the bountifully laden tables were a pleasing sight and there's strong evidence that the long drive helped poor appetites for the beans which were baked in the ground. The meeting was called to order at 1.30 p. m. Preceding roll call, "America," was sung by all with salute to flag. The roll call of granges was answered by Bear Mt. grange, South Waterford; Franklin grange, Bryant Pond; Pleasant Valley grange, West Bethel; Alder River grange, East Bethel; Round Mountain grange, Albany; Bear River grange, Newry; West Paris grange, West Paris; Upton grange, Upton; Crooked River grange, Bolsters Mills; Norway grange, Norway.

A program of interest was presented by the lecturer as follows

Address of Welcome .. W. M., Bertha Judkins
Response ..... Harold Pike
The usual collection was taken for Good Will Cottage.
Song ..... Chorus
Recitation ..... Myrtle Pratt
Reading ..... Sister Judkins
Amusing Stories ..... Iva Bickford
Song.....Sisters Abbott, Bennett and Lane

The speaker was U. S. Dist. Attorney Frederick R. Dyer, who gave a short talk on prohibition, followed by a more exhaustive talk on the Direct Primary and the effect it would have for betterment, if repealed in favor of the Convention system. A rising vote of thanks was extended Mr. Dyer.

Remarks ..... G. W. Q. Perham
Song .... Sisters Lane, Abbott, and Bennett

A topic of interest was introduced by the lecturer in regard to the foliage of the white birch trees. Several opinions were expressed, Lecturer Wight stating he had discovered a worm embedded in the tissues of the leaves. Frost was suggested. S. F. Peaslee said it couldn't be that up there, for the people were so warmhearted they never had frosts. A good example of "Boost your home town." A song with encore by Brother Perham was appreciated.

There were remarks on various topics of interest by several. In closing all joined in singing, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again." The attendance was about one hundred.

Oxford County Pomona will meet with Bear Mt. Grange Oct. 3 at South Waterford.
